Dream Has anyone ever had a visitation dream? (self.Paranormal)

submitted 2 months ago by BullMooseTeddy7411

Has anyone had any experience with a visitation dream before? The other night I feel like I experienced this... I have my ex girlfriends ashes in my tattoo of a lotus flower on my left hand. (Her favorite flower) But let me back up a little bit and provide a backstory.

My ex and I remained super good friends after our break up, we were freshman in high school when this happened. I begun dating a new (older girl) Who was absolutely insane & really clingy ; paranoid I was cheating so she was super controlling.

Anyways: I was at a bonfire without my crazy girlfriend there & I ran into my ex gf who was before mentioned above. She hugged me & we took a picture together. She kept her arm around me & I pushed her away and said "My girlfriend is absolutely crazy, could you please actually delete that pic for me so it doesn't get out by chance?" She agreed and was super sweet to me as always but I could tell it bothered her a bit not being as close as we normally are. That was the last time I saw her, because I unfortunately moved to a different state after my break up with said mentioned crazy girlfriend

We still would text and remain in contact & update each other about our crazy lives. Anyways, the "visitation" dream setting & what happened is actually why I believe I had a visitation dream from her but I'm honestly not entirely sure if it was just my conscious trying to get closure from her passing..

The dream was me at a bonfire, that same night actually. The same friends around me. All the same age as that night I mentioned before. Everyone looked so young too it was VERY vivid. My ex gf who passed away walks up to me, greets me very excitedly and then hugs me and takes a picture with me. I politely pushed her away, & told her my wife (Who I'm married to now) Wouldn't like me touching an ex gf without her present. Everyone looked at me weird and that's when I MYSELF started to realize I was in a dream connecting reality to it.

this is where stuff gets really weird

My ex gf says "Oh so it's still like that for you?" & then started making remarks like "You're so tatted up now oh my god you look like a rapper hahahaha" "But I really like this one" (She grabbed my hand with the lotus flower on it) But I couldn't see my hands for some reason it was super blurry. I didn't have any tattoos on myself ANYWHERE in my dream it was a blur when I would look at my hands and arms but I could make out my skin was completely empty.

My friends grabbed me and said it's time to leave, I knew that she was actually right there in front of me. I could feel that it was her at this point & I wanted to do everything to stay, but next thing I knew my wife was waking me up saying I was making a lot of noise in my sleep and my left hand was up in the air above my stomach. I immediately got chills.

So my question is, have you ever had a visitation dream & do you think they are real? Because I truly think my ex came to visit me that night in that dream. I'm curious to see what you guys have experienced : have to say. ANY input would be appreciated greatly.

I come from a family of healers and sensitives so I've had paranormal and supernatural experiences all my life as has the rest of my family.

I have had many visitations both in dreams and otherwise.

My brother passed away three months ago and he has visited my sisters and I. My oldest sister, who he was closest to, dreamt she was at a dinner party at their friends house and saw he was there. They ended up going into a separate room away from everyone and sat down to talk. He told her about his passing and that it didn't hurt, but he doesn't know why he can't cross over. He died of an accidental overdose :/

Five years ago I had a dream where I met the father of my friend David(63). His name was Leon. Leon passed away a couple years before I met David. In the dream there were other family members walking around a white wooden house. I walked inside the house and I met Leon in the kitchen. Black hair and short stature and all as I saw in pictures. He knew who I was and was happy to see me. He told me a joke which I didn't remember and I went to walking around more before the dream ended.

Minor detail, This had to have been in 2015. In the dream there was a car I saw that did not exist but I had known that in the dream it was a new Oldsmobile despite Oldsmobile being dead by the late 2000s.

I don't know if one with a DOG counts but here goes:

In the dream, I was sitting in the living room of my old house. I was sat next to the window which overlooks the backyard. It was night time in the dream. I was looking through the Pokemon Go app, and when I looked up out of the window there was my old dog named Bear looking at the window with an attentive look on her face. She is a border collie so normally would have black on white fur, only this time her black fur was a shade of grey. She was walking through the yard towards the connected driveway. I started

I've had a few. I keep having a dream where my father, grandfather and I are working on a house living in a trailer home near the site. It's very weird, my grandfather died when I was 7 so seeing him how I remember him when I was a kid just seems off. Still he isn't interested in talking, he is more about making sure we put up dry wall in the dreams.

Yeah, I've had visitation dreams before involving a really good friend of mine who died when I was 10. They're just dreams and they happen randomly, but I cherish them because it's almost like spending extra time with that person. Those dreams seem like so much more than other dreams because those dreams touch us so much more, and seem to be much more impactful and meaningful. I don't believe those dreams are real at all, but I'm grateful for them on the very rare occasions they occur.

I have had several dreams where I was visited by loved ones. They were always very vivid and very meaningful, unlike most of my dreams which are normally just super weird or creepy.

I don't really know how to explain why or how dreams like that happen. And I probably have different beliefs about what happens to someone once they have died. Like I don't think their soul is left wandering the earth or that they can appear to us at any moment (like a ghost), but I think sometimes we're "allowed" to have dreams or visions of it serves a purpose.

I'm not very religious at all and I feel the same way you do about life after death. This dream was entirely too vivid for me to think it wasn't a visitation, I even felt her presence that entire morning afterwards...
