Haunting A Very Negative Host at Friendsgiving

(self.Paranormal)

submitted 2 months ago by Thecrdbdsamurai

Hey everyone, I had an experience the last weekend of September with my SO and a few of my friends at an Air BnB we rented.

My SO and our friend that rode with us arrived first and got the groceries.

Everything was great and we were so excited when all our friends arrived. Sitting there, playing Magic, cooking, some of us drinking, and just ask around visiting.

My better half mentions her sister being pregnant and being due within the next couple months. My friend and fiancé mention that their wedding is postponed because of COVID precautions. And our married friends mentioned that they missed their toddler and couldn't wait for him to be old enough to join us.

After dinner is done and we all start heading to bed, I get my shower and can't shake the feeling of being watched. I don't say anything to the missus about it and we just head to bed. For the first time in years, I have a nightmare. It felt so real, I dreamt that my squeeze cheated on me right above my head under my own roof. The dream made me angry and insecure, but I managed to shake that feeling.

A couple hours later, I heard sobbing. Turns out she also had a nightmare where her sister had died in a car accident. The following morning, everyone just looks dead on their feet except one person, the mother of the toddler.

I stay awake for most of the following night, our overhead ceiling fan has a soft light on it, which I leave on so I can investigate if needed. I wake up around 2ish to footsteps in our attached bathroom and our overhead light out. I get up, turn the lights on, prepared to fight whoever is sneaking around and ask my friend, whomever they are, what the hell they're doing in my room after I locked the door. There wasn't anyone there. Nobody. Nothing. The sounds even stopped. Everything, gone.

The next morning, I let it slip that I think there's something going on, and that I think I know what it is. To which my friend's fiance mentions having a dream that they broke up and how heartbroken and distraught she was. Then our friend that rode there with us mentioned that he heard somebody in the kitchen around 3:30a and saw a shadow walk by his room.

I look at everyone during breakfast, put my fork down in my plate with these amazing banana pancakes. I mention that I have an idea of what we're dealing with and should be happy we're leaving within the next three hours.

I elaborate that there were three dreams and a shadow that gives me enough evidence to believe it's a doppelganger. I explain my partner's dream and my friend's fiance's dream. Then I elaborate on mine, and how the only information it has on me is whom I'm in a relationship with.

As I personally recall, doppelgangers need information to try to tap into certain parts. The postponed wedding and my future sister-in-law being pregnant were all the knowledge it needed to feed off of the negative energy. Then my SO asked me why it didn't show her eldest sister, I told her it didn't know she has a second sister, it couldn't use information it didn't know.

Anyway, we all got back to our homes and nobody has had a nightmare since.

Oh wow... that's very interesting experience indeed. Without investigating personally I couldn't say that it was a doppelganger. Although, it seems from what you've told that it did give a lot of personal trauma experiences. Makes me feel as if it were an entity that took it's life at one point due to all the negative effects. It very well could be this entity feeds off the negative energy of the living.

Glad to hear you and your friends have had no other issues. Although, I would, if not already, talk to your SO about what was bothering you. These entities like to play more so on what you fear and think about conscious or subconsciously.

Thanks for sharing your experience!

This is super interesting. Not quite the same but I arrived at my parents house on Saturday and had a crazy nightmare about my ex trying to get back with me and my cat being severely injured. Literally woke up in a cold sweat. The next day I noticed my mum had put a bowl of salt in the room (we have a superstition that salt near your bed protects you from nightmares). I slept like a rock last night and woke up feeling great.
