Experience Car driven by itself, possibly jumped a moment in time

Hadn't thought about this until I've been more active on this sub and seen other people question memories in their past.

When I was young, I used to play in the park opposite my school for an hour before walking home. One day as I'm walking down the street before my turn I watch a car drive up my side of the road towards me and park up, only there was no one in it. It signalled and parked but no one got out and I have a real strong memory of walking past it and going back to look if the car was turned on (as a kid I assumed turning off the car stopped it from rolling).

I've always put it down to a brain fart, possibly rolling even though its a flat road, and the sun reflecting through trees to simulate the turn signals but it's interesting to have thoughts about. Being a kid I told everyone this story, and had a local lad tell me he saw the exact same thing, but being children who knows if he's just story telling.
