Experience Shadow person dominated my life ! (self.Paranormal)submitted 2 months ago by jojorobbie29

Hey everyone, I apologise in advance for the long story but I'll try to keep it as short as possible. I've wanted to share this experience for many years but I was too afraid to do so, afraid of what people may think. I mean I had to see it to believe it and, well, I did.

My horror started when I was 17 years old, back in 2008. I'd just moved into a flat, my first ever one. I was pretty excited for the first year, it was great and I loved every minute of it. That was until my boyfriend at the time came over with a few friends. This particular night I wasn't feeling too well so I crashed in my bedroom. However I didn't realise what my partner was about to do without my knowledge. Little did I know, him and his friends decided to bring a Ouija board with them, and play it while I was sound asleep.

Now I have no idea what they said to it or what happened as they didn't really say anything, so I thought nothing of it at the time. About a week after this, strange things started to happen around the flat. I would have these horrific nightmares of my teeth dissolving from my mouth, and every time I woke, always around 3:15 am, I always felt cold, like bitter cold and I could always see a tall black shadow standing in the corner watching me sleep. This happened over the course of 4 months, every other night.

Safe to say I was so scared I thought I was losing my mind. One day my neighbour came round to mine and she said she could feel someone in front of her. At this point I was trembling, and then this God-awful growl came from in front of me. We both ran out of the flat and the front door glass actually smashed. I've since checked on Google Street View and the wood panel where the glass used to be is still there, even to this day.

I immediately decided never to go back ever again and I didn't to this day. The horrifying image of the being still sits in my mind, I hope no one ever moved in there. Obviously there is more to the story but I think this is too long as it is. Even writing this brings horrid memories back to light.

back at my parents house the place was full of various entities including multiple shadow people, some of these entities were malicious and we woke up with marks on our bodies and various other effects. however I seemed to be spared the worst of it which I think I can thank one of the shadow people for. I named him talldark, short for tall dark and long fingered, he had a round head, glowing colourless eyes that didn't emit light (weird to describe), legs that ended in points, and a long tail. he used to sit on my chest of drawers or the boxes in my room and just stare at the doorway sometimes turning his head to me and smiling with a disturbing toothy grin with a similar glow to his eyes but somehow his presence was calming.

To be honest I'm glad I left I felt nothing but fear and I was really petrified of it almost sort of like

The shadow people are real based on the sheer number of stories I've encountered over the last 30 years. They used to look like the dementors from Harry Potter but lately they are appearing more as a man wearing a Fedora. Super scary by virtue of their existence and appearance but so far I have yet to hear of them actually hurting anyone. I used to think they were drawn to people who are developing psychics. Now I'm starting to think they may be following an agenda. In you case I think the shadow person came to counter whatever made the growl you heard.

To be honest I'm not sure why all I felt was fear I was so glad my friend was there just so someone would believe me to be frank the shadow just looked like a tall man

I'll log that in my data. The more I hear the more mysterious this "Shadow People" thing becomes.

Most of my paranormal encounters have been with shadow people. I've yet to even see a ghost, but I've seen a crawler once

I agree with the fedora comment. What an odd evolution of such a curious anomaly
